

DRY AMENDMENT RATIFIED

NEBRASKA THE THIRTY-SIXTH STATE TO ACT IN FAVOR OF THE PROHIBITIVE FEDERAL AMENDMENT

TOTAL AND ABSOLUTE PROHIBITION OF THE LIQUOR TRAFFIC IN ALL FORMS PROVIDED FOR IN LAW WHICH NOW BECOMES EFFECTIVE ONE YEAR FROM TODAY—OR A "DRY" NATION ON JANUARY 16TH, 1920

LIQUOR INTERESTS ORGANIZING BIG FIGHT TO TEST ITS LEGALITY

(By United Press)

Nebraska today earned a new name by being the 36th state to ratify the national prohibition amendment. Senator Shepperd, Texas, author of the amendment coined a new name.

"Nebraska," said Shepperd, "is the perfect 36 among the states." The vote in the lower house was unanimous, 98 representatives being present to ratify the resolution.

LINCOLN, NEB., Jan. 16.—The Nebraska legislature ratified the bone dry amendment to the federal constitution today, making the ratification by states complete. Nebraska was the 36th state to vote on it and it was the 36th state to ratify it. The nation goes bone dry under this amendment one year from today.

Ratification in the Nebraska legislature was complete at 10.25. The Senate concurred in the House resolution early today. The Senate two days ago ratified the amendment. It was referred to the Senate this morning for concurrence.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Prohibition became part of the basic law of the United States today.

Ratification of the federal dry amendment by the legislature of Nebraska today makes that measure the eighteenth amendment to the Federal Constitution.

All but a half dozen of the 48 states are expected to adopt the amendment in the next few weeks but the action of Nebraska today gives the ratification of three-fourths of the states, the number necessary to administer John Barleycorn the K. O. punch.

One year from today every saloon, brewery, distillery and wine press in the land must close its doors, unless as now seems likely—they are already closed at that time by war prohibition which goes into effect next July 1 and stays until completion of demobilization.

The amendment which outlaws liquor in this country reads:

"Section 1. After one year from the ratification of this article the manufacture, sale, or transportation of intoxicating liquors within, the importation thereof into, or the exportation thereof from the United States and all territory subject to the jurisdiction thereof for beverage purposes is hereby prohibited.

"Section 2. The congress and several states have the concurrent power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

"Section 3. This article shall be inoperative unless it shall have been ratified as an amendment to the constitution by the legislatures of the several states, as provided in the constitution within seven years from the date of submission hereof to the states by congress."

This is the amendment adopted by Congress December 18, 1917, and ratified by thirty-six states a little more than one year later.

And here are some of the things that amendment will do:

Cut off from these persons an annual income totalling more than $70,000,000 in pre-war times.

Cut off from the United States treasury a source of taxation counted upon for an even billion dollars in the first drafts of the new revenue bill and millions in additional incomes to state treasuries.

Remove the liquor question from national, state, and city politics for all time, and help decrease city, state, and federal expense by decreasing law violations.

The passing of the legalized liquor traffic in Clearfield county will mean a loss in revenue to the county of only $2040, that being the county's share of last year's 50 liquor licenses. In addition to this each district in the county where licensed liquor places existed sixty per cent. of the license fee was returned to the district treasury. In Clearfield borough with its eight retail places and one brewery the license money returned amounted to $960 per year. The other twenty-five per cent. of the license fee was turned ed into the State treasury.

Another $6000 will be lost by the attorneys handling license applications.

The ending of the liquor traffic will also result in a loss of employment to between five and six hundred men, the big majority of whom are brewery workers. More than one-half the hotels of the county will go out of business entirely when final taps are sounded over John Barleycorn's red nosed corpse, while the remainder will continue in business as eating or boarding houses.

No doubt an effort will be made to have the familiar ballad entitled "How Dry I Am" made the national anthem of the second class. Who knows?

The fight on liquor, triumphant today, is as old as the constitution itself.

It raised its head early in the nineteenth century and was looked upon as "another crank notion". But it gathered strength. Churches took it up, doctors followed, and then came organizations of anti-liquor societies—the W. C. T. U., the anti-saloon league, and others.

In the middle of the nineteenth century, Maine went dry. Kansas followed. At the end of the Civil war the little band of anti-slave agitators, who had won their fight, seriously considered turning to the prohibition battle. Their number included William Lloyd Garrison and the poet Whittier.

About 1900 came the militant stage in the person of Carrie Nation of Kansas, probably the most picturesque figure the fight ever developed.

Ten years later the crusade against liquor had grown from the "ravings of cranks" into an irresistible movement that swept the country.

But John Barleycorn will try to stage a "come-back".

Distillers are already planning a fight on the amendment in the courts on the grounds that it was not adopted by two-thirds of the whole congress and that the seven-year limitation in it invalidates the measure.

Drys say they are confident that neither of these contentions will hold and on their side are preparing legislation carrying heavy penalties for violation of prohibition. A special agency in the internal revenue bureau will probably be asked.

The first thirty-six states ratifying the amendment are: Mississippi, Virginia, Kentucky, North Dakota, South Carolina, Maryland, Montana, Texas, Delaware, South Dakota, Massachusetts, Arizona, Georgia, Louisiana, Florida, Michigan, Ohio, Oklahoma, Maine, Idaho, West Virginia, Washington, Tennessee, California, Arkansas, Illinois, Indiana, North Carolina, Alabama, Kansas, Utah, New Hampshire, Oregon, Colorado, Iowa, and Nebraska.

JEFFERSON CITY, MO., Jan. 16.—Missouri today ratified the federal prohibition amendment. The House vote was 104 to 36. The resolution was passed by the Senate early by a vote of 22 to 10.

NEXT TO MOTHER AND HOME SAYS YANK "OVER THERE"

Next to home and mother. That is the way Private R. J. Bowman describes The Progress which has been sent to him in bundles once each week thru the kindness of some friend or relative. Listen to his letter. We need say no more on the subject of the home paper to the boys, who are still "over there".

Gievres, France, Dec. 23rd, 1918.

Dear Friends:

This is a couple of days before Christmas, so I have decided to write to you and express my appreciation for the news in the home town paper, which I have been receiving for the past three months and as a soldier in France I will say it can't be beat. It is next to that letter from home and Mother.

I have gained about twenty-five pounds since I left home in May but I am one in fifty who has gained weight around here. I feel fine and in the best of health and not much to kick about.

Clearfield has surely done its share in this world's war in all ways: men in the service, Red Cross, and Y. M. C. A. But tell them all to do all they can for the Red Cross, for they can't be beat. They have done lots for all of us.

I am enclosing a piece of poetry a friend of mine composed and I think it is great. I wish you would publish it in your paper for I think it will do some of our home town girls good.

This is about all the news I can think of so will close with best regards and wishes to all.

PVT. R. J. BOWMAN.

Almost all of the subscriptions to soldiers have expired. Very few are still paid in advance. In accordance with our "stop the paper when the subscription expires" policy those which have expired are no longer getting the paper. As a matter of accommodation we will receive further subscriptions to the boys over there at the rate of forty cents per month or three months for a dollar. We do not make a cent on this proposition. We pay the postage which is a considerable item.

Those whose subscriptions have not yet expired are listed below and opposite their names is the date their subscription expires. If "your soldier boy's" name is not listed here he is no longer getting The Progress. If you desire that it be sent to him again drop in with the dollar. Please do not phone to us. We must have the address again and we would rather you would mail it to us in black and white or come to the office and write it down. Following are the names:

APATHY WILL NOT BUILD GOOD ROADS ATTEND THE MEETING TOMORROW EVE

A preliminary meeting of local people interested in the formation of an organization of the automobile owners and drivers of the county has been called for Friday evening, Jan. 17th, at 8 o'clock in the Arbitration room, court house.

Everybody interested in this organization which will have for its primary object the securing of good roads for Clearfield county should attend tomorrow night's meeting.

Under the new $50,000,000 road bond issue Clearfield county will be entitled to $700,000 for road building and what is needed now is some responsible organization to keep tab on road affairs locally and see that our county's interests are not neglected. Let everybody interested attend this meeting which is preliminary to the calling of a general county meeting.

AMERICAN THIRD ARMY FINDS LARGE QUANTITY OF HIDDEN GERMAN GUNS

By WEBB MILLER

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

AMERICAN HEADQUARTERS IN GERMANY, Jan. 16. (By courier to Nancy.)—Nearly 200 three-inch field guns, 1,000 shells and more than a million dollars' worth of harness and equipment—not surrendered by the Germans under the terms of the armistice—were discovered in an isolated workhouse in Coblenz today. The Americans immediately seized the whole supply inasmuch as it should have been surrendered to the Allies.

A request for twelve million dollars for the Third Army's expenses during February has been sent to Berlin.

The first German flag to be seen since the Americans occupied the country was placed at half mast during the funeral of Burgomaster Plosterman. Delegates asked permission to fly the flag at half mast during the funeral procession through the streets. American authorities granted the request. Several American officers in charge of civil affairs who have had dealings with the Burgomaster, sent flowers.

WATCH FOR THE FAKE SEED SALESMAN

Alluring promises of great yields from a special seed oats and seed potatoes are attracting a number of farmers in eastern Pennsylvania to offers made by traveling seed salesmen who have been reported to the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture and whose responsibility is dubious.

The agents who have made their appearance in Bucks, Montgomery and Delaware counties represent New York State houses and are taking orders for what they claim is a new variety of oats that has brought big yields in Canada, and the price ranges from three dollars to three dollars and seventy-five cents a bushel.

Pennsylvania farmers are urged by Economic Zoologist J. G. Sanders to be careful from whom they purchase their seeds and especially to purchase seeds only from well-known and reliable houses or agents. All agents recognized by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture must carry a State license and the Department asks for any information relative to agents who are unlicensed, or even licensed agents, who may be making an effort to sell new varieties of seeds with extravagant promises of large yields. Farmers can help protect themselves and their neighbors by reporting any suspicions that they may have about seed salesmen with whom they come in contact.

MANY ARE COLD BUT SOME ARE FROZEN

The Editor
Clearfield Progress
Dear Sir:

Your heading to one of the heat "sensation" communication in Tuesday's issue certainly is misleading. The casual reader draws the ready inference that Mr. Consumer is "frozen" even though his steam bill was less. Why should he not kick after depriving himself of the comforts of a warm house during what has been an unusually mild winter?

I venture to say that he is only one of many of the other four-fifths whom the Penn Public officials refer to as being satisfied and I am another.

I have followed every direction of the company experts. I have enclosed the "coil" and placed a register over it. I have turned down my intake valve. I have turned off radiators in portions of the house that are not being used but where in former years they have been turned on the entire season. My steam bill each month in spite of this conservation and deprivation not to mention discomfort and inconvenience, has been larger than the corresponding period last year.

The steam officials have advised that turning radiators off and on frequently, was inadvisable on account of increased condensation incident to cooling down but how do they justify their own turning off of steam at night during the earlier months with its consequent cooling down of the entire heating system in one's home and necessary condensation when they turn the steam on again in the early mornings. This idea surely helped add to the meter readings and bills during the first month or two at least.

A conservative estimate would be that I have used about one half of the quantity of steam this season that was used in the same period last year for which each month's bills have been progressively higher than last year.

I am one of the four-fifths who because they have not protested are considered "satisfied" but I am not satisfied.

I have awaited the movement which has been instituted and join with the "kickers" as heartily as any. Give this matter a thorough investigation as it deserves and I feel sure the justice of the complaints and the injustice of the rates can be clearly established.

The remark by one of the higher officials to a protesting consumer that if she did not like it she did not have to use it, did not go far toward "satisfying" the grievance but did put that official in a different light before my own mind.

This communication is merely as a means of registering me on the list of protestants and I would prefer that my name be withheld probably for same reason as our good brother whose letter you referred to in the issue mentioned above.

Yours very truly

PROFITABLE ON MOST FARMS

Dairying and Stock Raising Where Good Crop Rotation Is Practiced Are Recommended.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

General farming and live stock raising, with a limited amount of dairying and a good crop rotation is, on the average, the type most easily made profitable on most farms in the northern edge of the corn belt. This is brought out in a study made by a farm management specialist of the United States department of agriculture, of 300 owner farms and 133 tenant farms in Lower Michigan, which is typical of southern Michigan, northwestern Ohio and northeastern Indiana.

It was found that specialized dairy farms paid better normally than dairy and grain farms, but on the average did not pay as well as the combination of dairying and live stock raising. Dairying with hogs and grain usually yielded better labor income than any other combination. The outstanding advantages of this type as compared with others are greater diversity of income, a large percentage of receipts from sale of live stock and live stock products, and a comparatively small percentage of the income from the sale of crops, because for the most part the crops are sold to better advantage by feeding them to live stock. The types of farming and the general conditions which prevail in this section make the size of a farm a very important factor bearing on the income, according to the bulletin. There is also a direct relation between the amount of capital invested and the labor income of the operator. Generally speaking, the larger the farm and the greater the investment, the greater the percentage or rate of income.

The cropping system and the proper distribution of crop area, it was learned, were important factors in profitable farm management. On the more profitable farms studied in this territory, from 70 to 80 per cent of the total crop area was in corn, an average of 10 per cent in oats, an average of 30 per cent in wheat, from 1 to 10 per cent in barley, and from 20 to 30 per cent in hay.

As a result of the study it was found that the following rotation is well adapted to conditions in this area: First year, corn; second year, corn; third year, oats and barley; fourth year, wheat, and the fifth year, hay. Alfalfa is a valuable addition to the average cropping system and the bulletin suggests an increase in the acreage of this crop throughout the region.

TRINITY METHODISTS HAVE CONSECRATION SERVICE

The large auditorium of Trinity church is seeing larger attendance each evening for the revival meetings. People who may not be overmuch interested in other features of the service enjoy the hearty congregational singing of the night's program. Last night witnessed one of the most impressive services held in the church in a long time, when the altar was filled and many others came forward to consecrate themselves to the service of the Master. The pastor preached from the text "Who is willing to Consecrate his Service This Day Unto the Lord?" Miss Ethel Boyce sang a beautiful gospel song.

The tide of interest in the meetings is rising. The praise service tonight begins at 7:30 and you will spend an hour worth while if you are present.

ARE YOU GETTING YOUR COPY OF THE PROGRESS REGULAR

Are you getting your paper? We are talking to Clearfielders, Curwensvillers, Gramplanites and Woodlanders now. At all of these places we maintain carrier systems. Under our twenty three boys and a couple of good little girls. We say good little girls because we know they are good little girls and you cannot be sure about the boys although we venture to say there is not a real bad one among them. But we are getting away from the subject.

Are you getting your paper every evening? Every once in a while one of our good boys gets a little careless and lets another boy deliver his papers. The substitute does not know the route and as a result someone is missed. Sometimes a little streak of laziness will creep into his bones and he will throw a few papers away and go home early. Once in a while a sudden temptation will come to him and he will sell a paper. Our carrier boys are not allowed to sell any papers. All are sent out for the regular subscribers.

Many subscribers neglect to notify us when they do not receive their paper and in this way we make bad friends. The object of this little story is to ask every subscriber to be very, very particular to report to the office when they do not receive their paper. It is often a case of a new boy on a route. The new fellow, doing the best he can, will miss one or two on the route. Delivering a hundred or more papers along a strange street for the first time is no cinch. If you don't believe it, try it sometime. In this case, when we are not notified we take it for granted that all subscribers are getting their papers and this mistake is not found until we try to collect and then we get an awful calling down and are curiously told that the subscriber has not been getting the paper for three weeks.

Call us on the phone or write to us when you do not receive your paper. It is the only way we have of knowing whether or not you are getting what you are paying for.

SECRET MEETING OF PEACE CONFERENCE MEETS OBJECTION

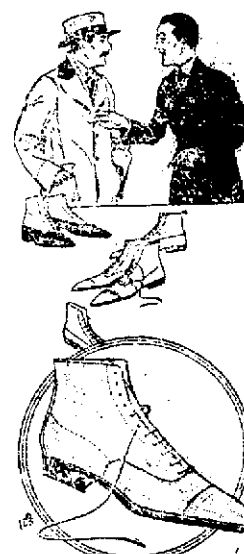

By Fred S. Ferguson

Paris, Jan. 16.—The peace delegates today decided to call the newspaper correspondents of the Allies' representatives into conference for an interchange of views. It was believed that the present "secret order" would be brought up. It was predicted that it would be materially modified.

French newspapers protested today against the conference "secret ruling." The press suggests that the conference's attitude was that "those who made the war do not need to know how peace is made." "What are we going to do about it," the native censor of President Wilson's people believe that the conference should be open. Wilson promised Senator Borah that all discussion of the conference would be placed before the public and repeated his promise at every opportunity but Wilson committed himself lightly. The cancelleries of old Europe taught him that without a censorship there is no salvation.

THE OUTCAST DOE

By Hiram Spisklberger

A tale was told of a nimrod bold,
Who strayed through the forests
baffling trails,
Searching far and near for fleet-footed deer.

Alert for the flash of their white
flagged tails,
He said "By gum! This is goin' some!
But I'm tellin' you now that it ain't no use.

There hills are high and its tough on a guy
That's clean plumb out of old cactus juice.

So he sat him down on the cold damp
ground
By a stump near the trail of the lonesome pine

He had pipe dreams of cool crystal streams
A lancewood rod, and a silken line.

He was sad, forlorn, hadn't seen a horn.

When along came a barren old lop-
eared doe.

She switched her tail, and did sadly
wail

And unfolded a heartrending tale of woe.

She said "I'm disgraced, and am cast

Oh, Dear!

The Bucks all disown me, Oh, Dear!
Oh, why did I stray from Dame Vir-

And chew the skin off of Jim Con-

MRS. ALICE R. POTTER

Mrs. Alice R. Potter, widow of Dr.
J. W. Potter, died very suddenly at her home in Philadelphia early Saturday morning, January 11, 1919. The remains were brought to the home of her son, W. B. Potter, in Karthaus,
where the funeral was held Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock, Rev. J. P.
McCurdy officiating. Interment in Keewaydin cemetery.

Mrs. Potter was born January 20,
1840. She was united in marriage with
Dr. J. W. Potter. They went to housekeeping in Pottersdale, then moved to Keewaydin and then to Clearfield, where Dr. Potter passed away some twenty years ago.

Mrs. Potter lived in Clearfield for many years and greatly endeared herself to many people here. She was a kind hearted woman and leaves a rich
heritage of good deeds and kind acts.
She has come to the end of a long and
a well lived life.

She was a faithful member of Trinity Methodist church and was a beautiful Christian character and walked in the pathway that her Master marked out. Her life was hid in Christ in God and her Saviour went with her through the valley of the shadow of death and brot her to the true home
of the soul.

Mrs. Potter was a thorough home woman. She was a devoted wife and duty was to the home. Her home was mother and never forgot that her first a Christian home in the true sense of the word. Her children were brought up in the fear and the admonition of the Lord.

Mrs. Potter was called upon to pass through deep waters during the course of her life. She lost four young children. Then she lost a beautiful young daughter. Then her husband was called home. Then this fall a new trouble came into her life,
a devoted son passed into the great unknown. But now it is all over and
by this time she has clasped hands
with her husband and children on the streets of the New Jerusalem.

Mrs. Potter left Clearfield about three years ago, moving to Pittsburgh.
She then moved to Philadelphia where she had resided for the last two years.

Her granddaughter, Miss Bess Potter, oldest daughter of W. B. Potter, lived with her grandmother from the time she was quite a young child and was a bright spot in that home. She is also survived by two sons, W. B.
Potter of Karthaus and Roger Potter
of Buffalo and several grandchildren.

FIRST YANK TAKEN BY HUNS TELLS HIS EXPERIENCE

(By United Press.)

LONDON, Dec. 23. (By Mail.)—Here is the story of the first American soldier to be taken prisoner by the Germans in the war, as he told it today, sitting in a comfy armchair in the American Red Cross headquarters on Grosvenor Gardens.

His name is John P. Lester, of Tottwater, Miss. He was a platoon-messenger in the 10th U. S. Infantry. He was captured the morning of Nov. 3, 1917, in company with ten other doughboys—all that was left of a platoon of 16 sent into a front line trench in the Toul sector the night before to relieve a platoon of tired poilus.

Here is the story: "A German aviator spotted us soon after daylight, and began circling over us, signalling back to his artillery. We let go at him with our guns, but couldn't hit him. Next we knew the Germans put down a box barrage on all sides of us, completely cutting our salient off from the rest of the system, and 300 field-grays came over the top.

"We blazed away at 'em until our ammunition was gone. Five of us were killed and all but two wounded. I was hit three times in the leg. And then they were upon us.

"A German corporal and four men jumped down into the trench beside me and told me to get a move on. I believe I was the first to be taken. They marched us across No Man's Land and into one of their own front ditches.

"I never will forget the trip thru that trench. We had not gone far before our feet began striking against bodies of German soldiers, lying there twisted up on the floor of the trench. As we reached a more active salient, the number of corpses increased. I remember how our shoes slipped over the heads of the dead Germans, how their bodies yielded slightly under the pressure of our weight, how the skin of their faces was bruised as we tramped over them.

"The first time our party halted, I leaned against the wall of the trench, nauseated and exhausted. My leg had begun to throb terribly.

"But I was brought to my senses in a minute or two by a fist-blow on the face. In front of me stood two German officers. The other one struck me on the back of the neck, shouting in German (I understood German), 'You will get a good deal worse than this if you can't stand at attention and salute when an officer passes.'

"We were then quizzed in a little dugout just behind the front line trench—each separately, of course. The odd part of it was that although we had had no previous understanding, we all happened to give exactly the same answers—as we found out later in comparing notes.

"Later, I myself was present at 300 other quizzings of prisoners. (The Germans used me as an interpreter.) The Germans always asked just three questions—I hardly remember a single variation. First, how many Americans are there in France? Second, is there any American artillery? Third, tell what you know about the conveying of troops.

"That day we all answered that there were three million Americans in France, but no American artillery so far as we knew. Most of us said the troopships came in convoys of from 20 to 40 ships. I told them I had come over on the Mauretania, unescorted.

"Then they forced us to march 30 kilometers to a village which I think was Kamecke. It was pretty tough, I can tell you. You see, all but two of us were wounded, and some of the fellows had all they could do to hobble along. All the attention we had received was a little first aid in that dugout.

"I was in a hospital at Kamecke a month. They fed us on bread and watery soup.

"After I had begun to mend, they removed me to the Glessen prison camp. Then I was taken to Darmstadt, and finally to Tüchel, where I stayed until the armistice.

"The first thing they did was to take off our shoes and give us wooden slippers. The next was to tell us to get to work.

"Still all we had to eat was a little black bread and watery soup.

"After four months of hard manual labor we were so weak we couldn't walk.

"One day a German general visited the camp, accompanied by a man who said he was an American newspaperman. We refused to believe him at first, thinking it was another German trick to put us off our guard. He was continually asking us if we had any message to send the home folks.

"Finally one of our crowd called out, 'If you tell the folks anything, tell them we never expect to see them again. Before long we shall all be over there in that graveyard near the

INFLUENZA!

People Strongly Urged to Continue Precautions as Isolated Outbreaks are Expected Throughout Winter

Infection Proved Only Possible by Entrance Through Nose and Mouth of Vicious Influenza Germs.

It has been clearly established that the living virulent influenza germs are readily conveyed from one person to another.

These germs are present in the excretions of the nose, mouth and throat or other air passages and as these mucous excretions are discharged the living germs go with them.

LIVING GERMS AFLOAT

These germs are so exceedingly small that the minutest even invisible particles of this discharge may contain these in great numbers. These discharges are most frequently and widely scattered in the air as an almost invisible spray of coughing and sneezing unless the nose and mouth are covered by a handkerchief or other efficient substitute. By this simple precaution all these dangerous germs may be kept out of the air and the largest risk of the conveyance to others of this disease avoided.

WARNINGS

Don't become alarmed. Keep your balance, watch and give every attention to your nose and throat. Keep your mouth shut and breathe through your nose previously applying a little Forkola to the inside of the nostrils. This serves to collect and destroy the germs at the entrance to your system and before they can do any damage. Keep warmly clad and wear heavy soled shoes. Sleep with the windows open but be careful to have ample bed-clothes.

SYMPTOMS

The first symptoms are chills, a headache and depression and in the great majority of cases a feeling of catching cold and fever. When these symptoms appear, hurry home camp, where 30,000 Russians are already buried. The Germans are slowly starving us to death.

"Well, the general got pretty red in the face and said it was all a lie.

"But the next week, a bunch of American Red Cross packages showed up, each with 22 pounds of food. After that, they appeared regularly, and we grew fat and strong. We never ate another bite of German food. We turned our prison rations over to the Russians in the camp with us, while we had the time of our lives eating good old American food.

"No, I don't know a thing about internal conditions in Germany. The people may be starving or wallowing in plenty for all I know. They never let us outside the prison fence except when they took us to the train after the armistice. And as the railroad seemed to run through a desolate, uninhabited part of the country, we didn't get a chance to get a line on things then.

"We came through Holland to England."

"Say, but isn't this chocolate great?"

OLD AGE STARTS WITH YOUR KIDNEYS

Science says that old age begins with weakened kidneys and digestive organs. This being true, it is easy to believe that by keeping the kidneys and digestive organs cleansed and in proper working order old age can be deferred and life prolonged far beyond that enjoyed by the average person.

For over 200 years GOLD MEDAL HAZELDEN OIL has been relieving the weaknesses and disability due to advancing years. It is a standard old-time home remedy and needs no introduction.

obtaining from your druggist a small quantity of Forkola. Take a hot bath, as hot as you can stand it, a hot drink, preferably hot lemonade and a good laxative and go to bed. AND NOW COMES THE IMPORTANT ADVICE. These symptoms show that the germ has a foothold. Make up your mind you'll soon be well. Keep your bedroom window open but have heat in the room. Exercise the same care as in measles, diphtheria or smallpox. Don't allow a careless physician to minimize the importance of your case but be more careful to expectorate in gauze or in rags that must be burned and not washed.

But above all do not forget to apply Forkola liberally in the mucous membrane of the nose and throat. This is just as important as the hot bath and hot drinks.

The Pneumonia of Influenza

Which is a frequent complication, while apparently very severe many disappear in a night under proper treatment and the best way for a person afflicted with influenza to avoid pneumonia is to go to bed at once and stay there until the physician permits you to get up. While in bed the back, throat and chest should be liberally covered with Forkola and fannel applied to insure the necessary heat for its absorption. Allow a little to melt in your mouth three or four times daily. It soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and permits the easy expulsion of phlegm.

IMPORTANT — In some districts the demand for Forkola has been so heavy that there is a temporary shortage. The public are warned against accepting substitutes and to insist on Forkola as all wholesalers are supplied and your druggist, if he is sold out, can get it on short notice.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

All who were present at the Presbyterian prayer meeting last evening were delighted to see the young people's choir out in full force again. They sang a beautiful special number and it is not necessary to say that a choir of fifteen voices adds about one hundred per cent. to the inspiration of a meeting. This choir is planning to have special music for each service. We hope to see a congregation fill the chapel as well as the choir fills the platform at all the prayer meeting services in the future.

NATURALIZATION COURT TOMORROW

Judge Bell will preside over a session of naturalization court on Friday, January 17th. An examiner will be present from the U. S. Department of Commerce and Labor.

There will be a total of some fifty applicants for final naturalization scheduled to be heard at this session.

The embargo placed against the naturalization of subjects of Germany and Austria as the result of the war has not been lifted yet and accordingly the applications of seventy-five former subjects of these nations pending, some of them, since 1915 will be again continued. This practice will be followed until a government policy concerning such applicant is finally adopted following the peace settlement.

Miss Celestia Bonner entertained a few of her girl friends last evening at her home on Whitmer street. The evening was spent in playing cards and dancing. Dainty refreshments were served.

POWERFUL PILE REMEDY DISCOVERED

Has Never Failed to End Most Obstinate case of Piles in a Few Days

For years it has been proved that so-called external remedies applied to or inserted in the rectum cannot cure piles, and at the best can only give temporary relief. Surgical operations also do not remove this cause, but simply the formation.

The wonderful prescription known as Miro Pile Remedy, is so efficient in the treatment of piles that even chronic cases of from 20 to 30 years standing with profuse bleeding have been completely cured in from three to ten days. Think of it! Just a few doses of a carefully balanced prescription and the most persistent case of piles is absorbed never to return.

All pharmacists dispense Miro or can get it for you on short notice. Surely its forth the little trouble to obtain it to be rid of piles forever.

IMPORTANT—What is known as itching piles are not piles in the true sense of the word, although this condition may accompany a true case of piles. For this condition Miro Pile Ointment has been prepared as in such cases it is not necessary to take the internal prescription.

NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORS CURWENSVILLE

Frank L. Arnold who spent the holidays in Nashville, Tenn., visiting with his daughter Mrs. R. R. Kramer, has returned home and resumed his position with the Elk Tannery as leather weigher.

Mrs. Dr. Jenkins left yesterday for Pittsburgh, to visit her son Joseph who has just passed through a serious attack of the influenza. He will accompany his mother home the fore part of next week or probably the latter part of this week if his condition permits.

The Keystone band is now down to business and are practicing regularly two nights out of each week. They expect that within the next month to give Curwensville people a rare musical treat. The band is under the leadership and direction of Hugh McKenrick, a thorough and up to date musician.

All of the public school room doors are opened to resume the interrupted winter term. The schools have been closed for some five or six weeks on account of the influenza epidemic, but since the board of health has declared all danger of a renewal of the disease breaking out in virulent form past and lifted the "lid" on everything also, the school board decided that it was time to renew the schools. The attendance was not quite up to the usual roll number, but will gradually get back to the usual attendance is all three buildings. All of the teachers are back in their old places. Mr. Yetter has been employed to take the position of Miss Reed in the branches of history, Miss Reed resigning her position.

Keep your eyes open for the man who is traveling through this section of the county, offering to trade you bonds in wildcat mines and gas wells in exchange for your Liberty Bonds. If he by chance visits your home hand him over to the police.

Some half dozen or more Curwensville merchants delighted their patrons this week by presenting them each with a handsomely decorated calendar for the year 1919.

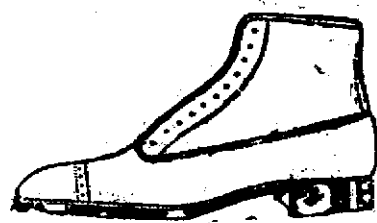

Kelly Bloom, who passed through a serious stage of the influenza at his home at Ferncliff is convalescing and hopes to be about again soon.

The fire in the coal mines operated by the Bickford fire clay people near Luthersburg is still burning. A number of men have been engaged in trying to extinguish the flames but as yet have not made much headway in that direction. There seems to be no authentic explanation of how the fire got started. The loss to the company so far has been considerable.

There will be a very important meeting of the Epworth League at the West Side M. E. church tonight. The young people are especially invited to be present.

SHOPLIFTERS COME TO GRIEF AT THE M'CROORY STORE

"Frederick the Great" Ward, the Argus-eyed manager of the Mc-Croory five and ten cent store, proudly dangles the scalp of one more shop-lifter at his belt, following an experience yesterday afternoon.

When an extra large shoplifting wave struck our town a little more than one year ago, Manager Ward, as was told in The Progress at the time, arranged a set of periscopic mirrors on the balcony or office platform at the rear of the room and soon succeeded in landing quite a bunch of the dexterous, slick-fingered ladies and gentry. Ward improved on his installation from time to time following the many improvements made in trench and submarine warfare. He has his system perfected to such an extent now that it is almost letter-perfect. His mirrors are so arranged that as a customer enters either door their likeness is reflected on a mirror in front of the manager's desk and if so disposed he may by simply keeping his eye fastened on the glass in front follow the customer down the usually crowded aisles and keep close tab on every movement. By a most unique and mechanically perfect arrangement, in case it is deemed necessary a second mirror singles out any particular customer from all the rest and by means of this silent assistant an enlarged likeness of the suspect is thrown upon the tell-tale glass in the manner of the spotlight and it is then possible to closely inspect even the slightest movement of the person under surveillance.

Yesterday afternoon about 3:30 a woman entered the store and, having just finished stacking up the coupons he had clipped from his Liberty Bonds, Mr. Ward was looking himself over in the glass over his desk when a movement of the customer reflected alongside of his satisfied countenance attracted his attention from his own manly beauty, and he was the trained thief catcher on the instant.

The woman was evidently on a collecting tour and almost before you could say John D. Rockefeller (if you were thinking of your steam bill) she had purloined three articles from as many different counters and was continuing her mad scramble.

Having seen enough the manager stepped down and invited the lady to accompany him to the office. When they arrived there a search disclosed the three articles taken and a girl's cap from Robinson's store.

About that time Mose Robinson and Officer Carlson arrived on the scene and identified the cap as having been swiped from the Robinson store. The badly frightened woman was taken before Squire Chorpington where she confessed her peccadilloes, saying it was the first time she had ever committed such crimes and could not understand how she so far forgot herself as to offend this time.

The goods taken were valued at $1.80 and she was allowed to retain them on the payment of $6.50 which provided for the costs in the case, and she left Clearfield for home sadder but much wiser.

DRY AMENDMENT RATIFIED

NEBRASKA THE THIRTY-SIXTH STATE TO ACT IN FAVOR OF THE PROHIBITIVE FEDERAL AMENDMENT

TOTAL AND ABSOLUTE PROHIBITION OF THE LIQUOR TRAFFIC IN ALL FORMS PROVIDED FOR IN LAW WHICH NOW BECOMES EFFECTIVE ONE YEAR FROM TODAY—OR A "DRY" NATION ON JANUARY 16TH, 1920

LIQUOR INTERESTS ORGANIZING BIG FIGHT TO TEST ITS LEGALITY

(By United Press)

Nebraska today earned a new name by being the 36th state to ratify the national prohibition amendment. Senator Shepperd, Texas, author of the amendment coined a new name.

"Nebraska," said Shepperd, "is the perfect 36 among the states." The vote in the lower house was unanimous, 98 representatives being present to ratify the resolution.

LINCOLN, NEB., Jan. 16.—The Nebraska legislature ratified the bone dry amendment to the federal constitution today, making the ratification by states complete. Nebraska was the 36th state to vote on it and it was the 36th state to ratify it. The nation goes bone dry under this amendment one year from today.

Ratification in the Nebraska legislature was complete at 10.25. The Senate concurred in the House resolution early today. The Senate two days ago ratified the amendment. It was referred to the Senate this morning for concurrence.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Prohibition became part of the basic law of the United States today.

Ratification of the federal dry amendment by the legislature of Nebraska today makes that measure the eighteenth amendment to the Federal Constitution.

All but a half dozen of the 48 states are expected to adopt the amendment in the next few weeks but the action of Nebraska today gives the ratification of three-fourths of the states, the number necessary to administer John Barleycorn the K. O. punch.

One year from today every saloon, brewery, distillery and wine press in the land must close its doors, unless as now seems likely—they are already closed at that time by war prohibition which goes into effect next July 1 and stays until completion of demobilization.

The amendment which outlaws liquor in this country reads:

"Section 1. After one year from the ratification of this article the manufacture, sale, or transportation of intoxicating liquors within, the importation thereof into, or the exportation thereof from the United States and all territory subject to the jurisdiction thereof for beverage purposes is hereby prohibited.

"Section 2. The congress and several states have the concurrent power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

"Section 3. This article shall be inoperative unless it shall have been ratified as an amendment to the constitution by the legislatures of the several states, as provided in the constitution within seven years from the date of submission hereof to the states by congress."

This is the amendment adopted by Congress December 18, 1917, and ratified by thirty-six states a little more than one year later.

And here are some of the things that amendment will do:

Cut off from these persons an annual income totalling more than $70,000,000 in pre-war times.

Cut off from the United States treasury a source of taxation counted upon for an even billion dollars in the first drafts of the new revenue bill and millions in additional incomes to state treasuries.

Remove the liquor question from national, state, and city politics for all time, and help decrease city, state, and federal expense by decreasing law violations.

The passing of the legalized liquor traffic in Clearfield county will mean a loss in revenue to the county of only $2040, that being the county's share of last year's 50 liquor licenses. In addition to this each district in the county where licensed liquor places existed sixty per cent. of the license fee was returned to the district treasury. In Clearfield borough with its eight retail places and one brewery the license money returned amounted to $960 per year. The other twenty-five per cent. of the license fee was turned ed into the State treasury.

Another $6000 will be lost by the attorneys handling license applications.

The ending of the liquor traffic will also result in a loss of employment to between five and six hundred men, the big majority of whom are brewery workers. More than one-half the hotels of the county will go out of business entirely when final taps are sounded over John Barleycorn's red nosed corpse, while the remainder will continue in business as eating or boarding houses.

No doubt an effort will be made to have the familiar ballad entitled "How Dry I Am" made the national anthem of the second class. Who knows?

The fight on liquor, triumphant today, is as old as the constitution itself.

It raised its head early in the nineteenth century and was looked upon as "another crank notion". But it gathered strength. Churches took it up, doctors followed, and then came organizations of anti-liquor societies—the W. C. T. U., the anti-saloon league, and others.

In the middle of the nineteenth century, Maine went dry. Kansas followed. At the end of the Civil war the little band of anti-slave agitators, who had won their fight, seriously considered turning to the prohibition battle. Their number included William Lloyd Garrison and the poet Whittier.

About 1900 came the militant stage in the person of Carrie Nation of Kansas, probably the most picturesque figure the fight ever developed.

Ten years later the crusade against liquor had grown from the "ravings of cranks" into an irresistible movement that swept the country.

But John Barleycorn will try to stage a "come-back".

Distillers are already planning a fight on the amendment in the courts on the grounds that it was not adopted by two-thirds of the whole congress and that the seven-year limitation in it invalidates the measure.

Drys say they are confident that neither of these contentions will hold and on their side are preparing legislation carrying heavy penalties for violation of prohibition. A special agency in the internal revenue bureau will probably be asked.

The first thirty-six states ratifying the amendment are: Mississippi, Virginia, Kentucky, North Dakota, South Carolina, Maryland, Montana, Texas, Delaware, South Dakota, Massachusetts, Arizona, Georgia, Louisiana, Florida, Michigan, Ohio, Oklahoma, Maine, Idaho, West Virginia, Washington, Tennessee, California, Arkansas, Illinois, Indiana, North Carolina, Alabama, Kansas, Utah, New Hampshire, Oregon, Colorado, Iowa, and Nebraska.

JEFFERSON CITY, MO., Jan. 16.—Missouri today ratified the federal prohibition amendment. The House vote was 104 to 36. The resolution was passed by the Senate early by a vote of 22 to 10.

NEXT TO MOTHER AND HOME SAYS YANK "OVER THERE"

Next to home and mother. That is the way Private R. J. Bowman describes The Progress which has been sent to him in bundles once each week thru the kindness of some friend or relative. Listen to his letter. We need say no more on the subject of the home paper to the boys, who are still "over there".

Gievres, France,
Dec. 23rd, 1918.

Dear Friends:

This is a couple of days before Christmas, so I have decided to write to you and express my appreciation for the news in the home town paper, which I have been receiving for the past three months and as a soldier in France I will say it can't be beat. It is next to that letter from home and Mother.

I have gained about twenty-five pounds since I left home in May but I am one in fifty who has gained weight around here. I feel fine and in the best of health and not much to kick about.

Clearfield has surely done its share in this world's war in all ways: men in the service, Red Cross, and Y. M. C. A. But tell them all to do all they can for the Red Cross, for they can't be beat. They have done lots for all of us.

I am enclosing a piece of poetry a friend of mine composed and I think it is great. I wish you would publish it in your paper for I think it will do some of our home town girls good.

This is about all the news I can think of so will close with best regards and wishes to all.

PVT. R. J. BOWMAN.

Almost all of the subscriptions to soldiers have expired. Very few are still paid in advance. In accordance with our "stop the paper when the subscription expires" policy those which have expired are no longer getting the paper. As a matter of accommodation we will receive further subscriptions to the boys over there at the rate of forty cents per month or three months for a dollar. We do not make a cent on this proposition. We pay the postage which is a considerable item.

Those whose subscriptions have not yet expired are listed below and opposite their names is the date their subscription expires. If "your soldier boy's" name is not listed here he is no longer getting The Progress. If you desire that it be sent to him again drop in with the dollar. Please do not phone to us. We must have the address again and we would rather you would mail it to us in black and white or come to the office and write it down. Following are the names:

AMERICAN THIRD ARMY FINDS LARGE QUANTITY OF HIDDEN GERMAN GUNS

By WEBB MILLER

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

AMERICAN HEADQUARTERS IN GERMANY, Jan. 16. (By courier to Nancy.)—Nearly 200 three-inch field guns, 1,000 shells and more than a million dollars' worth of harness and equipment—not surrendered by the Germans under the terms of the armistice—were discovered in an isolated workhouse in Coblenz today. The Americans immediately seized the whole supply inasmuch as it should have been surrendered to the Allies.

A request for twelve million dollars for the Third Army's expenses during February has been sent to Berlin.

The first German flag to be seen since the Americans occupied the country was placed at half mast during the funeral of Burgomaster Plosterman. Delegates asked permission to fly the flag at half mast during the funeral procession through the streets. American authorities granted the request. Several American officers in charge of civil affairs who have had dealings with the Burgomaster, sent flowers.

WATCH FOR THE FAKE SEED SALESMAN

Alluring promises of great yields from a special seed oats and seed potatoes are attracting a number of farmers in eastern Pennsylvania to offers made by traveling seed salesmen who have been reported to the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture and whose responsibility is dubious.

The agents who have made their appearance in Bucks, Montgomery and Delaware counties represent New York State houses and are taking orders for what they claim is a new variety of oats that has brought big yields in Canada, and the price ranges from three dollars to three dollars and seventy-five cents a bushel.

Pennsylvania farmers are urged by Economic Zoologist J. G. Sanders to be careful from whom they purchase their seeds and especially to purchase seeds only from well-known and reliable houses or agents. All agents recognized by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture must carry a State license and the Department asks for any information relative to agents who are unlicensed, or even licensed agents, who may be making an effort to sell new varieties of seeds with extravagant promises of large yields. Farmers can help protect themselves and their neighbors by reporting any suspicions that they may have about seed salesmen with whom they come in contact.

MANY ARE COLD BUT SOME ARE FROZEN

The Editor
Clearfield Progress
Dear Sir:

Your heading to one of the heat "sensation" communication in Tuesday's issue certainly is misleading. The casual reader draws the ready inference that Mr. Consumer is "frozen" even though his steam bill was less. Why should he not kick after depriving himself of the comforts of a warm house during what has been an unusually mild winter?

I venture to say that he is only one of many of the other four-fifths whom the Penn Public officials refer to as being satisfied and I am another.

I have followed every direction of the company experts. I have enclosed the "coil" and placed a register over it. I have turned down my intake valve. I have turned off radiators in portions of the house that are not being used but where in former years they have been turned on the entire season. My steam bill each month in spite of this conservation and deprivation not to mention discomfort and inconvenience, has been larger than the corresponding period last year.

The steam officials have advised that turning radiators off and on frequently, was inadvisable on account of increased condensation incident to cooling down but how do they justify their own turning off of steam at night during the earlier months with its consequent cooling down of the entire heating system in one's home and necessary condensation when they turn the steam on again in the early mornings. This idea surely helped add to the meter readings and bills during the first month or two at least.

A conservative estimate would be that I have used about one half of the quantity of steam this season that was used in the same period last year for which each month's bills have been progressively higher than last year.

I am one of the four-fifths who because they have not protested are considered "satisfied" but I am not satisfied.

I have awaited the movement which has been instituted and join with the "kickers" as heartily as any. Give this matter a thorough investigation as it deserves and I feel sure the justice of the complaints and the injustice of the rates can be clearly established.

The remark by one of the higher officials to a protesting consumer that if she did not like it she did not have to use it, did not go far toward "satisfying" the grievance but did put that official in a different light before my own mind.

This communication is merely as a means of registering me on the list of protestants and I would prefer that my name be withheld probably for same reason as our good brother whose letter you referred to in the issue mentioned above.

Yours very truly

PROFITABLE ON MOST FARMS

Dairying and Stock Raising Where Good Crop Rotation Is Practiced Are Recommended.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

General farming and live stock raising, with a limited amount of dairying and a good crop rotation is, on the average, the type most easily made profitable on most farms in the northern edge of the corn belt. This is brought out in a study made by a farm management specialist of the United States department of agriculture, of 300 owner farms and 133 tenant farms in Lower Michigan, which is typical of southern Michigan, northwestern Ohio and northeastern Indiana.

It was found that specialized dairy farms paid better normally than dairy and grain farms, but on the average did not pay as well as the combination of dairying and live stock raising. Dairying with hogs and grain usually yielded better labor income than any other combination. The outstanding advantages of this type as compared with others are greater diversity of income, a large percentage of receipts from sale of live stock and live stock products, and a comparatively small percentage of the income from the sale of crops, because for the most part the crops are sold to better advantage by feeding them to live stock. The types of farming and the general conditions which prevail in this section make the size of a farm a very important factor bearing on the income, according to the bulletin. There is also a direct relation between the amount of capital invested and the labor income of the operator. Generally speaking, the larger the farm and the greater the investment, the greater the percentage or rate of income.

The cropping system and the proper distribution of crop area, it was learned, were important factors in profitable farm management. On the more profitable farms studied in this territory, from 70 to 80 per cent of the total crop area was in corn, an average of 10 per cent in oats, an average of 30 per cent in wheat, from 1 to 10 per cent in barley, and from 20 to 30 per cent in hay.

As a result of the study it was found that the following rotation is well adapted to conditions in this area: First year, corn; second year, corn; third year, oats and barley; fourth year, wheat, and the fifth year, hay. Alfalfa is a valuable addition to the average cropping system and the bulletin suggests an increase in the acreage of this crop throughout the region.

The large auditorium of Trinity church is seeing larger attendance each evening for the revival meetings. People who may not be overmuch interested in other features of the service enjoy the hearty congregational singing of the night's program. Last night witnessed one of the most impressive services held in the church in a long time, when the altar was filled and many others came forward to consecrate themselves to the service of the Master. The pastor preached from the text "Who is willing to Consecrate his Service This Day Unto the Lord?" Miss Ethel Boyce sang a beautiful gospel song.

The tide of interest in the meetings is rising. The praise service tonight begins at 7:30 and you will spend an hour worth while if you are present.

CHARLOTTE NAMED TO HEAD LUXEMBURG

ARE YOU GETTING YOUR COPY OF THE PROGRESS REGULAR

Are you getting your paper? We are talking to Clearfielders, Curwensvillers, Gramplanites and Woodlanders now. At all of these places we maintain carrier systems. Under our twenty three boys and a couple of good little girls. We say good little girls because we know they are good little girls and you cannot be sure about the boys although we venture to say there is not a real bad one among them. But we are getting away from the subject.

Are you getting your paper every evening? Every once in a while one of our good boys gets a little careless and lets another boy deliver his papers. The substitute does not know the route and as a result someone is missed. Sometimes a little streak of laziness will creep into his bones and he will throw a few papers away and go home early. Once in a while a sudden temptation will come to him and he will sell a paper. Our carrier boys are not allowed to sell any papers. All are sent out for the regular subscribers.

Many subscribers neglect to notify us when they do not receive their paper and in this way we make bad friends. The object of this little story is to ask every subscriber to be very, very particular to report to the office when they do not receive their paper. It is often a case of a new boy on a route. The new fellow, doing the best he can, will miss one or two on the route. Delivering a hundred or more papers along a strange street for the first time is no cinch. If you don't believe it, try it sometime. In this case, when we are not notified we take it for granted that all subscribers are getting their papers and this mistake is not found until we try to collect and then we get an awful calling down and are curiously told that the subscriber has not been getting the paper for three weeks.

Call us on the phone or write to us when you do not receive your paper. It is the only way we have of knowing whether or not you are getting what you are paying for.

SECRET MEETING OF PEACE CONFERENCE MEETS OBJECTION

By Fred S. Ferguson

Paris, Jan. 16.—The peace delegates today decided to call the newspaper correspondents of the Allies' representatives into conference for an interchange of views. It was believed that the present "secret order" would be brought up. It was predicted that it would be materially modified.

French newspapers protested today against the conference "secret ruling." The press suggests that the conference's attitude was that "those who made the war do not need to know how peace is made." "What are we going to do about it," the native censor of President Wilson's people believe that the conference should be open. Wilson promised Senator Borah that all discussion of the conference would be placed before the public and repeated his promise at every opportunity but Wilson committed himself lightly. The cancellations of old Europe taught him that without a censorship there is no salvation.

THE OUTCAST DOE

By Hiram Spisklberger

A tale was told of a nimrod bold,
Who strayed through the forests
baffling trails,
Searching far and near for fleet-footed deer.

Alert for the flash of their white
flagged tails,
He said "By gum! This is goin' some!
But I'm tellin' you now that it ain't
no use.

There hills are high and its tough on
a guy
That's clean plumb out of old cack-
tus juice.

So he sat him down on the cold damp
ground
By a stump near the trail of the lonesome pine

He had pipe dreams of cool crystal
streams
A lancewood rod, and a silken line.

He was sad, forlorn, hadn't seen a horn.

When along came a barren old lop-
eared doe.

She switched her tail, and did sadly
wail

And unfolded a heartrending tale of woe.

She said "I'm disgraced, and am cast
aside
Oh, Dear!

The Bucks all disown me, Oh, Dear!
Oh, why did I stray from Dame Virtues path

And chew the skin off of Jim Conley's ear."

OBITUARY

MRS. ALICE R. POTTER

Mrs. Alice R. Potter, widow of Dr.
J. W. Potter, died very suddenly at her home in Philadelphia early Saturday morning, January 11, 1919. The remains were brought to the home of her son, W. B. Potter, in Karthaus,
where the funeral was held Tuesday
afternoon at two o'clock, Rev. J. P.
McCurdy officiating. Interment in Keewaydin cemetery.

Mrs. Potter was born January 20,
1840. She was united in marriage with
Dr. J. W. Potter. They went to housekeeping in Pottersdale, then moved to Keewaydin and then to Clearfield,
where Dr. Potter passed away some twenty years ago.

Mrs. Potter lived in Clearfield for many years and greatly endeared herself to many people here. She was a kind hearted woman and leaves a rich
heritage of good deeds and kind acts.
She has come to the end of a long and
a well lived life.

She was a faithful member of Trinity Methodist church and was a beautiful Christian character and walked
in the pathway that her Master marked out. Her life was hid in Christ in God and her Saviour went with her
through the valley of the shadow of death and brot her to the true home
of the soul.

Mrs. Potter was a thorough home woman. She was a devoted wife and duty was to the home. Her home was mother and never forgot that her first

a Christian home in the true sense of the word. Her children were brought up in the fear and the admonition of
the Lord.

Mrs. Potter was called upon to pass through deep waters during the course of her life. She lost four young children. Then she lost a beautiful young daughter. Then her husband was called home. Then this fall a new trouble came into her life,
a devoted son passed into the great unknown. But now it is all over and
with her husband and children on the streets of the New Jerusalem.

Mrs. Potter left Clearfield about
three years ago, moving to Pittsburgh.
She then moved to Philadelphia where
she had resided for the last two years.
Her granddaughter, Miss Bess Potter, oldest daughter of W. B. Potter, lived with her grandmother from the time she was quite a young child and was a bright spot in that home. She is also survived by two sons, W. B.
Potter of Karthaus and Roger Potter
of Buffalo and several grandchildren.

FIRST YANK TAKEN BY HUNS TELLS HIS EXPERIENCE

(By United Press.)

LONDON, Dec. 23. (By Mail.)—Here is the story of the first American soldier to be taken prisoner by the Germans in the war, as he told it today, sitting in a comfy armchair in the American Red Cross headquarters on Grosvenor Gardens.

His name is John P. Lester, of Tottwater, Miss. He was a platoon-messenger in the 10th U. S. Infantry. He was captured the morning of Nov. 3, 1917, in company with ten other doughboys—all that was left of a platoon of 16 sent into a front line trench in the Toul sector the night before to relieve a platoon of tired poilus.

Here is the story: "A German aviator spotted us soon after daylight, and began circling over us, signalling back to his artillery. We let go at him with our guns, but couldn't hit him. Next we knew the Germans put down a box barrage on all sides of us, completely cutting our salient off from the rest of the system, and 300 field-grays came over the top.

"We blazed away at 'em until our ammunition was gone. Five of us were killed and all but two wounded. I was hit three times in the leg. And then they were upon us.

"A German corporal and four men jumped down into the trench beside me and told me to get a move on. I believe I was the first to be taken. They marched us across No Man's Land and into one of their own front ditches.

"I never will forget the trip thru that trench. We had not gone far before our feet began striking against bodies of German soldiers, lying there twisted up on the floor of the trench. As we reached a more active salient, the number of corpses increased. I remember how our shoes slipped over the heads of the dead Germans, how their bodies yielded slightly under the pressure of our weight, how the skin of their faces was bruised as we tramped over them.

"The first time our party halted, I leaned against the wall of the trench, nauseated and exhausted. My leg had begun to throb terribly.

"But I was brought to my senses in a minute or two by a fist-blow on the face. In front of me stood two German officers. The other one struck me on the back of the neck, shouting in German (I understood German), 'You will get a good deal worse than this if you can't stand at attention and salute when an officer passes.'

"We were then quizzed in a little dugout just behind the front line trench—each separately, of course. The odd part of it was that although we had had no previous understanding, we all happened to give exactly the same answers—as we found out later in comparing notes.

"Later, I myself was present at 300 other quizzings of prisoners. (The Germans used me as an interpreter.) The Germans always asked just three questions—I hardly remember a single variation. First, how many Americans are there in France? Second, is there any American artillery? Third, tell what you know about the conveying of troops.

"That day we all answered that there were three million Americans in France, but no American artillery so far as we knew. Most of us said the troopships came in convoys of from 20 to 40 ships. I told them I had come over on the Mauretania, unescorted.

"Then they forced us to march 30 kilometers to a village which I think was Kamecke. It was pretty tough, I can tell you. You see, all but two of us were wounded, and some of the fellows had all they could do to hobble along. All the attention we had received was a little first aid in that dugout.

"I was in a hospital at Kamecke a month. They fed us on bread and watery soup.

"After I had begun to mend, they removed me to the Glessen prison camp. Then I was taken to Darmstadt, and finally to Tüchel, where I stayed until the armistice.

"The first thing they did was to take off our shoes and give us wooden slippers. The next was to tell us to get to work.

"Still all we had to eat was a little black bread and watery soup.

"After four months of hard manual labor we were so weak we couldn't walk.

"One day a German general visited the camp, accompanied by a man who said he was an American newspaperman. We refused to believe him at first, thinking it was another German trick to put us off our guard. He was continually asking us if we had any message to send the home folk.

INFLUENZA!

People Strongly Urged to Continue Precautions as Isolated Outbreaks are Expected Throughout Winter

Infection Proved Only Possible by Entrance Through Nose and Mouth of Vicious Influenza Germs.

It has been clearly established that the living virulent influenza germs are readily conveyed from one person to another.

These germs are present in the excretions of the nose, mouth and throat or other air passages and as these mucous excretions are discharged the living germs go with them.

LIVING GERMS AFLOAT

These germs are so exceedingly small that the minutest even invisible particles of this discharge may contain these in great numbers. These discharges are most frequently and widely scattered in the air as an almost invisible spray of coughing and sneezing unless the nose and mouth are covered by a handkerchief or other efficient substitute. By this simple precaution all these dangerous germs may be kept out of the air and the largest risk of the conveyance to others of this disease avoided.

WARNINGS

Don't become alarmed. Keep your balance, watch and give every attention to your nose and throat. Keep your mouth shut and breathe through your nose previously applying a little Forkola to the inside of the nostrils. This serves to collect and destroy the germs at the entrance to your system and before they can do any damage. Keep warmly clad and wear heavy soled shoes. Sleep with the windows open but be careful to have ample bed-clothes.

SYMPTOMS

The first symptoms are chills, a headache and depression and in the great majority of cases a feeling of catching cold and fever. When these symptoms appear, hurry home camp, where 30,000 Russians are already buried. The Germans are slowly starving us to death.

"Well, the general got pretty red in the face and said it was all a lie.

"But the next week, a bunch of American Red Cross packages showed up, each with 22 pounds of food. After that, they appeared regularly, and we grew fat and strong. We never ate another bite of German food. We turned our prison rations over to the Russians in the camp with us, while we had the time of our lives eating good old American food.

"No, I don't know a thing about internal conditions in Germany. The people may be starving or wallowing in plenty for all I know. They never let us outside the prison fence except when they took us to the train after the armistice. And as the railroad seemed to run through a desolate, uninhabited part of the country, we didn't get a chance to get a line on things then.

"We came through Holland to England.

"Say, but isn't this chocolate great?"

OLD AGE STARTS WITH YOUR KIDNEYS

Science says that old age begins with weakened kidneys and digestive organs. This being true, it is easy to believe that by keeping the kidneys and digestive organs cleansed and in proper working order old age can be deferred and life prolonged far beyond that enjoyed by the average person.

obtaining from your druggist a small quantity of Forkola. Take a hot bath, as hot as you can stand it, a hot drink, preferably hot lemonade and a good laxative and go to bed. AND NOW COMES THE IMPORTANT ADVICE. These symptoms show that the germ has a foothold. Make up your mind you'll soon be well. Keep your bedroom window open but have heat in the room. Exercise the same care as in measles, diphtheria or smallpox. Don't allow a careless physician to minimize the importance of your case but be more careful to expectorate in gauze or in rags that must be burned and not washed. But above all do not forget to apply Forkola liberally in the mucous membrane of the nose and throat. This is just as important as the hot bath and hot drinks.

The Pneumonia of Influenza

Which is a frequent complication, while apparently very severe many disappear in a night under proper treatment and the best way for a person afflicted with influenza to avoid pneumonia is to go to bed at once and stay there until the physician permits you to get up. While in bed the back, throat and chest should be liberally covered with Forkola and fannel applied to insure the necessary heat for its absorption. Allow a little to melt in your mouth three or four times daily. It soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and permits the easy expulsion of phlegm.

IMPORTANT — In some districts the demand for Forkola has been so heavy that there is a temporary shortage. The public are warned against accepting substitutes and to insist on Forkola as all wholesalers are supplied and your druggist, if he is sold out, can get it on short notice.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

All who were present at the Presbyterian prayer meeting last evening were delighted to see the young people's choir out in full force again. They sang a beautiful special number and it is not necessary to say that a choir of fifteen voices adds about one hundred per cent. to the inspiration of a meeting. This choir is planning to have special music for each service. We hope to see a congregation fill the chapel as well as the choir fills the platform at all the prayer meeting services in the future.

NATURALIZATION COURT TOMORROW

Judge Bell will preside over a session of naturalization court on Friday, January 17th. An examiner will be present from the U. S. Department of Commerce and Labor.

There will be a total of some fifty applicants for final naturalization scheduled to be heard at this session.

The embargo placed against the naturalization of subjects of Germany and Austria as the result of the war has not been lifted yet and accordingly the applications of seventy-five former subjects of these nations pending, some of them, since 1915 will be again continued. This practice will be followed until a government policy concerning such applicant is finally adopted following the peace settlement.

Miss Celestia Bonner entertained a few of her girl friends last evening at her home on Whitmer street. The evening was spent in playing cards and dancing. Dainty refreshments were served.

POWERFUL PILE REMEDY DISCOVERED

Has Never Failed to End Most Obstinate case of Piles in a Few Days

For years it has been proved that so-called external remedies applied to or inserted in the rectum cannot cure piles, and at the best can only give temporary relief. Surgical operations also do not remove this cause, but simply the formation.

The wonderful prescription known as Miro Pile Remedy, is so efficient in the treatment of piles that even chronic cases of from 20 to 30 years standing with profuse bleeding have been completely cured in from three to ten days. Think of it! Just a few doses of a carefully balanced prescription and the most persistent case of piles is absorbed never to return.

All pharmacists dispense Miro or can get it for you on short notice. Surely its forth the little trouble to obtain it to be rid of piles forever.

IMPORTANT—What is known as itching piles are not piles in the true sense of the word, although this condition may accompany a true case of piles. For this condition Miro Pile Ointment has been prepared as in such cases it is not necessary to take the internal prescription.

NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORS CURWENSVILLE

Frank L. Arnold who spent the holidays in Nashville, Tenn., visiting with his daughter Mrs. R. R. Kramer, has returned home and resumed his position with the Elk Tannery as leather weigher.

Mrs. Dr. Jenkins left yesterday for Pittsburgh, to visit her son Joseph who has just passed through a serious attack of the influenza. He will accompany his mother home the fore part of next week or probably the latter part of this week if his condition permits.

The Keystone band is now down to business and are practicing regularly two nights out of each week. They expect that within the next month to give Curwensville people a rare musical treat. The band is under the leadership and direction of Hugh McKenrick, a thorough and up to date musician.

All of the public school room doors are opened to resume the interrupted winter term. The schools have been closed for some five or six weeks on account of the influenza epidemic, but since the board of health has declared all danger of a renewal of the disease breaking out in virulent form past and lifted the "lid" on everything also, the school board decided that it was time to renew the schools. The attendance was not quite up to the usual roll number, but will gradually get back to the usual attendance is all three buildings. All of the teachers are back in their old places. Mr. Yetter has been employed to take the position of Miss Reed in the branches of history, Miss Reed resigning her position.

Keep your eyes open for the man who is traveling through this section of the county, offering to trade you bonds in wildcat mines and gas wells in exchange for your Liberty Bonds. If he by chance visits your home hand him over to the police.

Some half dozen or more Curwensville merchants delighted their patrons this week by presenting them each with a handsomely decorated calendar for the year 1919.

Kelly Bloom, who passed through a serious stage of the influenza at his home at Ferncliff is convalescing and hopes to be about again soon.

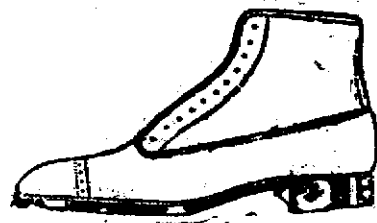

The fire in the coal mines operated by the Bickford fire clay people near Luthersburg is still burning. A number of men have been engaged in trying to extinguish the flames but as yet have not made much headway in that direction. There seems to be no authentic explanation of how the fire got started. The loss to the company so far has been considerable.

There will be a very important meeting of the Epworth League at the West Side M. E. church tonight. The young people are especially invited to be present.

SHOPLIFTERS COME TO GRIEF AT THE M'CROORY STORE

"Frederick the Great" Ward, the Argus-eyed manager of the McCroory five and ten cent store, proudly dangles the scalp of one more shoplifter at his belt, following an experience yesterday afternoon.

When an extra large shoplifting wave struck our town a little more than one year ago, Manager Ward, as was told in The Progress at the time, arranged a set of periscopic mirrors on the balcony or office platform at the rear of the room and soon succeeded in landing quite a bunch of the dexterous, slick-fingered ladies and gentry. Ward improved on his installation from time to time following the many improvements made in trench and submarine warfare. He has his system perfected to such an extent now that it is almost letter-perfect. His mirrors are so arranged that as a customer enters either door their likeness is reflected on a mirror in front of the manager's desk and if so disposed he may by simply keeping his eye fastened on the glass in front follow the customer down the usually crowded aisles and keep close tab on every movement. By a most unique and mechanically perfect arrangement, in case it is deemed necessary a second mirror singles out any particular customer from all the rest and by means of this silent assistant an enlarged likeness of the suspect is thrown upon the tell-tale glass in the manner of the spotlight and it is then possible to closely inspect even the slightest movement of the person under surveillance.

Yesterday afternoon about 3:30 a woman entered the store and, having just finished stacking up the coupons he had clipped from his Liberty Bonds, Mr. Ward was looking himself over in the glass over his desk when a movement of the customer reflected alongside of his satisfied countenance attracted his attention from his own manly beauty, and he was the trained thief catcher on the instant.

The woman was evidently on a collecting tour and almost before you could say John D. Rockefeller (if you were thinking of your steam bill) she had purloined three articles from as many different counters and was continuing her mad scramble.

Having seen enough the manager stepped down and invited the lady to accompany him to the office. When they arrived there a search disclosed the three articles taken and a girl's cap from Robinson's store.

About that time Mose Robinson and Officer Carlson arrived on the scene and identified the cap as having been swiped from the Robinson store. The badly frightened woman was taken before Squire Chorpington where she confessed her peccadilloes, saying it was the first time she had ever committed such crimes and could not understand how she so far forgot herself as to offend this time.

The goods taken were valued at $1.80 and she was allowed to retain them on the payment of $6.50 which provided for the costs in the case, and she left Clearfield for home sadder but much wiser.

PROMINENT PROHIBITIONIST DIES

W. H. Watt, a prominent citizen of DuBois, and one of the best known Prohibitionists in this section, passed away at his home on Third street, that city, at 11:25 o'clock, Wednesday evening, January 15, 1919, aged 73 years. He was an employee of John E. DuBois for many years.

The deceased is survived by his wife and the following daughters: Mrs. W. A. Truby, of Buffalo; Mrs. F. L. Brown, of Patton; Miss Ruth Watt, of Indiana; Mrs. T. C. North, of DuBois; and Elizabeth at home. One sister, Mrs. N. W. Matthews, of Apollo, also survives.

"Pat" McGovern, who was in the Spruce Production division of the U. S. army and located at Vancouver Barracks, Washington, was mustered out of the service last week and arrived home Sunday evening last.
